

Carrin Halfman

Bone as a biomarker of mercury exposure in prehistoric arctic human populations: initial method validation using animal models

Abstract:

Marine mammals are dietary staples among indigenous peoples of the Arctic, but these